RHINE FORCES ARE MOBILIZED

Rich Teuton Coal Lands to be Seized as Result of Reparations Conference Collapse—Paris Backed by Belgium—Britain Splits With Allies on Question

(BY WEBB MILLER)

PARIS — (United Press) — France mobilized her Rhine forces today, recalling all troops on leave from Mayence barracks.

General DeGoutte ordered this action immediately when word of the breakdown of the reparations conference reached the Rhineland. No military action against Germany will be taken, however, until orders are received from Paris.

France today planned conferences with Belgium and Italy.

Looking to a possible joint move to collect reparations from Germany. Great Britain will not be invited to this conference if one is arranged.

The crisis probably will come January 15, when the next reparations payments by Germany fall due. The Cuno government is expected to ask a moratorium and Italy and Belgium, as well as France, are opposed to this.

Belgium already has agreed to action by the three countries on the basis of Poincare's plan rejected by the British, and Italy, leaning more towards France than towards England, is expected to agree.

BRITAIN QUITS BOARD
Premier Poincare instructed Louis Barthou to call an immediate meeting of the reparations commission for notification of Germany's alleged default in coal payments.

John Bradbury, British member of the reparations commission, resigned. Two sessions, therefore, must be held under the Versailles treaty, to allow sufficient time for all to have a voice in the arrangements.

Then, well informed observers believe, the march on the Ruhr will begin.

French troops along the Rhine will be reinforced, it is believed, and an advance guard will push into Westphalia and occupy the richest German coal country.

HOPE CENTERED IN WASHINGTON

(BY A. L. BRADFORD)

WASHINGTON — (By United Press) — Hope of settling the reparations question without resort to war is now centered in Washington. The United States will use its influence to the fullest extent possible to bring about a peaceful settlement of the European crisis developed by the failure of the Paris conference, it was learned today.

Because of the grave situation facing Europe, definite action by the United States toward the submission of the reparations problems to a commission of experts was recently proposed by Secretary Hughes, may be taken in a few days. The international situation was the foremost topic of discussion at the cabinet meeting today.

Meanwhile, Germany, said to have been driven to a state of despair, may soon make a desperate move to inform the world that she will never submit to the proposed drastic French program of economic and military coercion.

George Harvey, American ambassador to the Court of St. James, is here in almost constant conference with President Harding and Secretary of State Hughes; foreign ambassadors are consulting Hughes on the situation and the British debt mission headed by Stanley Baldwin chancellor of the exchequer, is taking steps to obtain more leniency in a funding arrangement for payment of England's war debt to this country. The most important moves in development of American foreign policy are being discussed and formulated.

AMERICAN PROGRAM
The following will be the program of the American government in the present, the United Press is in a position to state:

1.—Secretary Hughes will revive the informal negotiations that he carried on for some time before the Paris conference, to see if the European powers are now willing to agree to this government's plan for an international commission or conference of economic and financial experts, in which the United States would participate to recommend a just and practicable reparations figure for Germany to pay.

2.—If the various countries interested are found to be agreeable to this plan, an invitation will be issued by Washington or some other government for the assembling of the conference or commission, men high in finance and economics will be named to serve as representatives of the different nations, and arrangements will be made to postpone the political discussions of the reparations question, until these experts can submit their recommendations.

3.—If, however, some country continues to block the American plan for a settlement of the reparations crisis this government, thru Secretary Hughes, will make plain to the world the attitude of the United States on the whole question, not attempting to hide where the responsibility for the present situation lies.

France is known to have held out so far against the plan of the United States and if she continues to do so, there is no doubt here that Hughes will reveal this situation.

Withdrawal of the American army of occupation might be one form of protest against an advance by France into the Rhineland and Ruhr valley of Germany.

HITCH IN TRUBEY CASE IS SEEN

Members of Probe Committee Reluctant to Serve.

COMMISSIONS NOT ACCEPTED

Chairman George Quail Expected to Assemble Body.

A stumbling block in the pressing of charges brought against R. R. Trubey, assistant prosecuting attorney, by B. F. Welty, former congressman, may be created by hostility of one or more members of the court committee to serve, it is asserted.

So far as could be learned Friday, none of the committee appointed by Judge Fred C. Becker to press the charges have actually accepted the commission.

No meeting of the committee has been held up to date and so far as could be learned none has been called.

Ira R. Longworth, one of the trio appointed by the court, indicated reluctance to serve, when questioned.

HAS NOT DECIDED
"It will depend on what other members want to do," he said. "I have not made up my mind to serve or not to serve."

Longworth received notification from the court of his appointment Friday morning, he said.

James J. Weadock, a second member declared, "I haven't given the matter any consideration at all."

"It is possible then that you might not serve?" he was asked.

"I positively have nothing more to say," Weadock answered.

George H. Quail, who is to act as chairman of the prosecuting committee, will probably accept, it was learned Friday.

As chairman it will be his function to assemble the initial meeting of the committee.

TESTIMONY FAILS, GRAY SAYS

Commissioner Believes Hospital Head Will Be Cleared.

That testimony taken in the investigation of the affairs of the Insular Tuberculosis hospital will effectively refute charges brought by L. A. Price, former Van Wert commissioner against Dr. C. A. Files was the declaration made by O. J. Gray, Allen county commissioner, Friday.

Gray hurled counter allegations at Files' opponents, who are said to be seeking to oust the hospital superintendent.

Price has threatened to bring the hospital matter to the attention of the Van Wert county grand jury when it convenes.

He charges that timber growing on the hospital reserve was cut and sawed into lumber and hauled to a Van Wert lumber yard.

Gray asserted that investigation of the committee showed that the timber was taken to the hospital and there was nothing to show it was hospital property.

MURDER PROBES ARE GUARDED

Troops Surround Investigators of Louisiana Band Raids.

OPEN HEARING IS BEGUN

Outbreak Feared as Case is Opened by State.

BASTROP, La. — (Associated Press) — Legal representatives of the state were ready today for its inquiry under civil procedure into masked band depredations in Morehouse parish but with state troops standing by to step in should any emergency arise to warrant assumption by the military of the police powers of the parish. Bastrop, parish seat, was quiet but with an air of suppressed excitement.

A detachment of cavalry was stationed across the road from the parish court house, a machine gun unit was on guard at the court house, another guarded the parish prison and a company of infantry was encamped within a stone's throw of the court building.

At Mer Rouge, headquarters of a detail of department of justice investigators who have assembled evidence which is expected to result in sensational disclosures and wholesale arrests, another infantry company and a cavalry detachment was on duty.

KIDNAPING PROBE
The kidnapping and slaying of Watt Daniels and Thomas Richards and other outrages of lesser importance, was expected to form the chief subject matter of the investigation.

A. V. Cocco, state attorney general, and his corps of assistants were here to conduct the inquiry.

Pressed for an intimation as to the number of witnesses, Mr. Cocco said it could safely be said they would number more than ten and less than a hundred. He was equally as non-committal as to how many arrests likely would result and when they would be made.

Only one man thus far is held on charges of murder in connection with the kidnapping and killing of Daniels and Richards, T. J. Burnette, a carbon plant worker who is in jail here.

Dr. B. M. McKinn, former mayor of Mer Rouge, who was arrested in Hallsville in connection with the death of the men and later released from that charge, was expected to arrive here today to offer testimony that he had no connection with the Morehouse kidnapping.

Adjutant General L. W. Toombs of the Louisiana national guard, declared that the question of whether martial law will be declared would depend on developments.

CRISSENGER TO BE NOMINATED

Picked as Governor of Federal Reserve Board.

WASHINGTON — (Associated Press) — D. R. Crisenger, the president of the Commercial Union, will be nominated as governor of the federal reserve board within a few days, according to information in high administration circles today.

Mr. Crisenger will succeed to the place made vacant by retirement of former Governor W. P. G. Harding. It appeared in administration circles today that President Harding had not decided whom he would name as controller of the currency, which position would be vacated by Mr. Crisenger's appointment.

The president also was said to have not yet decided upon a man to fill the vacancy in the federal reserve board representing agriculture, provision for which was made in a law enacted some months ago.

Former Governor Harding's term expired in August and since then Vice Governor Platt has been acting governor. Mr. Harding's name had been frequently mentioned for appointment but yesterday when it became known that he had made plans to enter private business, he was definitely eliminated as a possibility.

Mr. Crisenger, whose home is in Marion, Ohio, for years has been a close personal friend of President Harding. He is a lawyer by profession but has served as a bank president and has made a particular study of financial institutions. He was at one time a Democratic nominee for congress but he actively supported the Republican national ticket in the 1920 campaign.

FIVE KILLED AND TOWN IS BURNED IN RACE WAR

Clash of Whites, Blacks Brings Terror to Florida.

NEGROES BARRICADED IN HUT

Battle Results From Attack on Young Woman.

OTTER CREEK, Fla. — (Associated Press) — Two white men, two negro women and one negro man are known to be dead, while it is believed there are many other casualties as a result of race trouble last night and early today at Rosewood, 12 miles from here.

With the exception of three buildings, the entire village was burned by a mob shortly after daybreak, according to available reports here.

A party of citizens of Sumner went to Rosewood last night to investigate reports that two negroes sought in connection with an attack upon a white woman, were concealed there. Upon the approach of the party the negroes without warning opened fire killing two persons and wounding four.

It later developed that twenty-one armed negroes were in the house and citizens immediately established a cordon around it and opened fire with all kinds of fire arms.

NEGROES ESCAPE

At four p. m. the ammunition of the attackers became exhausted and the departure of many for fresh supplies gave the negroes an opportunity to escape. Their departure was discovered at daylight.

The vacated house contained the bodies of two negro women and one negro man.

Bloodstains indicated that several of those who escaped were wounded.

Immediately afterward, according to word from the scene, the mob began firing the buildings in village and almost every structure was destroyed. While the village was in flames, it is said members of the mob fired upon negroes fleeing from their homes. The result was not known here.

About twenty families resided in Rosewood, many if not the majority of them negroes.

ROSEWOOD, Fla. — (Associated Press) — Hundreds of citizens today renewed their efforts to smash a barricade behind which 25 or more heavily armed negroes were making a stand here in a small negro hut. Two white men were known to be dead, three wounded and a score or more negroes were believed slain in fighting which occurred last night.

Deputized possees and citizens said to number in the thousands were pouring into this village today, some coming from a distance of 75 miles.

All night long citizens surrounding the hut kept up a heavy fire and at intervals volleys of lead were fired from behind the barricade. At the first break of dawn the whites were preparing to rush the house from all sides. Authorities believed that unless the negroes surrendered they would be smoked out.

BUT RIDDEN
The number of negro dead could not be estimated early today but it was said to be ridled with bullets from the flooring to the roof.

The white dead were: Henry Andrews, superintendent of the Cammer Lumber Company's saw-mill.

Boly Wilkerson, of Sumner. The bodies of Andrews and Wilkerson laid all night where they fell. No one would venture to rescue them, so hot was the fire from behind the barricade.

The hut was in total darkness through the night but efforts of the citizens to creep up on the barricade met with a heavy fire. The negroes seemed well supplied with ammunition, most of it being buckshot.

Sheriffs and their deputies from neighboring counties arrived here during the early morning while in the meantime negro villages in surrounding towns were placed under heavy guard.

No racial outbreaks other than at this place had been reported. Since Monday this section of Florida has been stirred as the result of a criminal assault on a young white woman at Sumner. Three negroes took part in the assault. One negro was shot to death when he was said to have admitted to a mob that he had transported one of the wanted negroes several miles in a wagon.

Early last night a report reached Sumner that the negroes wanted were at Rosewood. A party of citizens went to Rosewood to investigate. In one house it is said they found about 25 negroes heavily armed.

Andrews and Wilkerson started to enter the house and citizens said they were shot to death without warning. Three other whites were wounded in the first skirmish.

Two innovations in handling were sprung in Lima, Friday at the regular monthly meeting of the board of directors of The First National Bank.

Dan W. Morris was elected president to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation some months ago of O. B. Selfridge. In the further organization, George E. Bayly was elected first vice president and managing director. This is a new feature in bank organization here. Bayly to become active head in the old fiduciary institution. Neil Shook was chosen second vice president to succeed Ed W. Illner, resigned, and William L. Russell, named chairman of the board, a second innovation in bank organization.

The vacancy caused by the untimely death of George R. Scalls was not filled, it being understood, however, that one of the many available brothers of the deceased, will be tendered the portfolio. Frank C. Cunningham remains as cashier and treasurer.

By the action of the board some time ago authorization was made of an increase in stock from $100,000 to $150,000, but such increase was not made Friday, as it is confidentially rumored that this will further be increased and the new capitalization may be at $300,000.

The usual four per cent annual dividend on the stock was declared last week.

HOUSE IS BOMBED

Akron Residence Partially Wrecked by Blackhanders.

CELEBRATES RELEASE FROM JAIL BY GETTING MARRIED

AKRON — (United Press) — A bomb explosion at the home of Dominick Cotugno rocked Akron's "Little Italy" today.

Police believe the infernal machine was placed by blackhanders. The explosion ripped off the front porch and tore out one side of the Cotugno home. No one was injured.

Cotugno said he had received a black hand demand for $5,000.

LIMA COUPLE INTERCEPTED BY OFFICERS

Ernest Bonanno and Phyllis Nelson Returned Here.

JUVENILE CHARGES FILED

Accused Man Also Under Federal Auto Charge.

Ernest Bonanno, 22, son of Frank Bonanno, grocer, 765 N. Main-st., pleaded not guilty and was held in $500 bond before Juvenile Judge J. H. Hamilton, Friday, when he was arraigned on a charge of contributing to the delinquency of Phyllis Nelson, 16, said to reside in 512 W. Market-st.

The couple was apprehended in Dayton Thursday by juvenile court authorities, while they were enroute to Cincinnati.

The elopers were returned to Lima Thursday night to face charges, in custody of Frank Chapman, juvenile court officer.

Bonanno had been released Wednesday under $5,000 bond fixed by United States Commissioner C. W. Long, in connection with the alleged theft of a motor car in Port Wayne. The car is said to have been driven to Lima by Bonanno.

GIRL LURED AWAY
Thursday, Bonanno lured the girl away with him, according to juvenile officers, by a promise to marry her when they reached Cincinnati.

The trip to Dayton was made in a motor car. From there, it was the intention of the pair to continue their journey south by rail.

Alarmed by her absence, parents of the girl, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Nelson, filed an affidavit in juvenile court.

A wire to Dayton set police to combing the city. They found the runaway and notified Lima.

Bonanno was held overnight and his pretty companion taken to the detention home. She is held as a delinquent and her case will be investigated by the court, Judge Hamilton declared.

CITY LAYS LINES TO GET HEAT

Free Heat to Be Furnished Safety Building.

Steam lines to furnish heat for the safety building on E. High-st. are being laid by city workmen under the direction of the water main extension department.

These lines will be 200 feet long and will extend from the intersection of High and Union-sts. to the police and fire department building. A four inch pipe is being laid and the cost will be approximately $1,000, D. B. Faust, construction foreman, believes.

After the trench is dug a layer of concrete is poured and the asbestos covered pipe is laid upon it. Then the whole is covered with cement. This will eliminate repairs and as it is being laid under the supervision of the Ohio Power company, heat waste will be minimized.

Fourteen men are working on the job and from the progress being made it is believed the work will be completed sometime next week. Drip lines and a manhole are yet to be installed, Faust says.

Under the terms of the steam heating franchise granted the Ohio Power company, the city buildings will be heated free of cost. Construction of the line will mean a considerable saving every year as it will not be necessary to operate the heating plant in the building.

This plant is practically worn out and would have to be replaced in a few years, city officials state, while with the utilization of free steam this cost will be eliminated. The saving will be several hundred dollars a year, it is believed.

TED SHIES AT DISEASE GERMS

In the humble opinion of Ted, the little weather mascot, this day has been of such a character as to behoove one to remain indoors, if possible.

You see, Ted has been reading warnings given by health experts and he is afraid of pneumonia and other kindred afflictions that are the outgrowth of exposure in damp weather. With coal at $10.50 per ton and natural gas meters working overtime, Ted has endeavored to cut down his fuel bills by patronizing Uncle John D. in the purchase of kerosene. Results are still uncertain.

Increasing cloudiness, followed by snow late tonight and Saturday in the weather program, part of the way. Colder Saturday and in north portion tonight.

What you and I may desire cuts no ice with the forecaster. He governs his predictions according to the indications afforded by delicate instruments and refuses to deviate from the story they tell. He makes no attempt at plagiarism. Simply repeats what the instruments say. If they're wrong, he has an alibi.

SUIT AGAINST RAIL FOR $500 IN SILVERS DEATHS

An echo of the death of Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Silvers, of St. Marys, on November 12, killed when a L. E. & W. Railroad train struck an auto in which they were riding, on a grade crossing, came in common pleas court at Celina Friday, when suit for $500 against the railroad company was filed.

Action was begun by Harry Smelser, guardian of Treva Flashbaugh, adopted daughter of the Silvers, for damages sustained by the child in the death of her foster parents.

Damage is estimated by the Rowlands company at $250.

NEW LAMP BURNS 94% AIR

Beats Electric or Gas

A new oil lamp that gives an amazingly brilliant, soft, white light, even better than gas or electricity, has been tested by the U. S. Government and 35 leading universities and found to be superior to 10 ordinary oil lamps. It burns without odor, smoke or noise—no pumping up, is simple, clean, safe. Burns 94% air and 6% common kerosene (coal oil).

The inventor, G. M. Johnson, 609 W. Lake St., Chicago, Ill., is offering to send a lamp on 10 day's FREE trial, or even to give one FREE to the first user in each locality who will help him introduce it. Write him to-day for full particulars. Also ask him to explain how you can get the agency, and without experience or money make $250 to $500 per month. adv

38 OF 100 BECOME DEPENDENTS

What Is Accomplished in Average Life Summed Up

ONE OUT OF 100 GETS RICH

Only 16 Of Widows Able To Live On Income

(BY B. C. FORBES)
NEW YORK. — (Special) — Are you heading for comfort, financially, in your old age?

The beginning of a new year is an ideal time to take this question up for very serious consideration.

Suppose we see just what happens to other people.

Let us start with 100 average men starting out in life at the age of twenty-five.

Ten years later seven of them are well to do, 62 are doing moderately well, 26 haven't saved anything, seven are dependent.

At forty-five, of the 86 still living, one is rich, ten are well to do, 53 have moderate means, 22 are worth nothing, of whom nine are dependent upon others.

At fifty-five, 23 are dead, one is rich, 13 are well to do, 40 are moderately comfortable, 24 are penniless and 18 of them are dependents.

At sixty-five, 42 have passed on and of those surviving only one is rich and seven are well to do, while no fewer than 50 have not enough income from property or investment to support them without working or receiving assistance from others. Of the 50, 22 are worth nothing. And no fewer than 38 are dependent upon others or upon charity of one kind or another.

At seventy-five, of the 33 still living only three are well off, 30 haven't enough income to support them without working or receiving assistance. Of the 30, 16 are worth nothing, and 60 per cent have become dependents.

What is the showing made by our hundred men when the final account is made after death?

Nine leave estates producing $50 a month or more, based on an income rate of 6 per cent.

Twenty-seven leave enough to yield an average of $20 a month.

But 44 leave little or nothing, most of them nothing at all.

What happens to widows?

Of 100 widows, only 16 are able to live on the income left them.

Forty-two have to eke out their incomes by doing some kind of work.

And no fewer than 42 become dependents.

These figures are taken from an extremely interesting folder just compiled by Joseph J. Devney as the result of the co-operation of a thousand bankers and life insurance men in all parts of the United States.

How can poverty in old age be guarded against?

Halsey, Stuart and Company, the investment bankers of New York, Chicago, Boston, Philadelphia, Detroit, St. Louis, Milwaukee and Minneapolis, deal very helpfully with this subject in a new booklet "Safe Bonds for Investment." They present figures and diagrams which show very clearly the amounts required to be invested monthly to accumulate $25,000, $50,000, $100,000 and $200,000 during any period ranging from 15 to 40 years.

How little do you think it is necessary to save—and invest systematically at 6 per cent—to have $25,000 in 40 years? Only $12.74 a month.

There are not many young men or women who couldn't scrape together the modest amount necessary to apply themselves to the task with the earnestness that its importance warrants.

To have $25,000 in thirty years calls for saving $25.11 a month. To do the trick in twenty years requires that $54.31 be saved every month.

Just think of it: In accumulating $25,000 in twenty years practically half of it comes from interest. During the first five years of saving $18,000 is added in interest while during the forty year period—when it has to be at the rate of $12.74 a month—no less than $19,000, of the $25,000 comes from the interest.

To figure out how much it is necessary to save a month to have $50,000 instead of $25,000, just multiply the monthly saving by two. If you aspire to saving $100,000, then multiply by four instead of two.

I certainly never want to be dependent on the charity of others when I grow old. Do you?

Wishing, however, won't help. Systematic saving will.

VALIDITY OF DOW-AIKEN TAX LAW MAY BE ATTACKED IN $1,000 COLLECTIONS

Validity of the Dow-Aiken tax law may be tested in court litigation, if an attempt is made by the county to collect a $1,000 penalty, provided by the law, from owners of property where liquor law violations have occurred.

Announcement that the tax will be levied against seven taxpayers in the county was made Friday by Harry E. Botkin, county treasurer. Names of the seven have been certified to Botkin by State Auditor Tracy. The tax will be assessed against the property owners and if not paid, execution can be issued. Taxpayers subject to the tax are: The Lima Brewing company; A. T. Fritz, an unidentified owner of premises at 238 N. Central-av.; L. E. Carter, owner of 417 N. Central-av.; Imber's cafe, Delphos, owned by the Imber estate; Charles J. Bush, Delphos; Mary McMahon, farmer near

WORKERS PUT IN DIDN'T EXPECT TO PLANT'S CHARGE EVER BE WELL

$1,000,000 Business Is Turned Over To Employees

SON PASSES UP BIRTHRIGHT

Owner Cuts Own Salary From $45,000 To 50 Cents

(BY BOB DORMAN)
NEW YORK, (Special)—Henry A. Dix, 73-year-old enlightened employer, who cut his own salary from $45,000 to 50 cents and turned over his $1,000,000-a-year business to his employees, hopes that other employers will follow his lead.

His sacrifice entailed the passing up of his son's birthright to the prospering dress manufactory. But Mark Dix, 42, was willing.

"Happiness," he says, "is not what you have, but what you do."

So father and son worked out all the details of the transfer of the business which was 30 years in developing. Now it is in the hands of their several hundred employees, who will pay for their stock out of the profits of the company.

CO-WORKERS, NOT EMPLOYEES

"The things that we have done for our workers," explains the younger Dix, "the five-day week, the bonuses, sick benefits, steady work, vacations with pay, no overtime, recreation centers—all have been steps to cause our own consciences."

"We felt that they did not approach justice to our co-workers. The success of any business is not only due to the acumen shown by its heads, but to the loyalty and devotion of its employees."

"Real justice demands that they be regarded as co-workers, not as employees in the proprietary sense."

"As for myself, I am ready to take a job with the new company. My dad will act in an advisory capacity."

"But first we hope to preach the gospel of fairness to all employers. They will find that it pays to be just."

"At the end of the year, it is the usual thing for the business man to fill out a two-page sheet—one side are assets, on the other liabilities."

If the record shows a large volume of business and a correspondingly greater volume of profits, the board of directors, or the individual owner, is well satisfied.

"But suppose that at the same time a third sheet were placed before them—a sheet devoted to a record of what the firm had done towards the betterment and progress of its workers."

"In how many firms would that sheet be a blank?"

"But if such a sheet were to become as customary as the assets and liabilities record, employers would soon see that it would not be blank. That is what we want to preach."

Lima Man Says The Plant Juice Has Relieved His Health Trouble

HE HAS GAINED 13 POUNDS

Day after day, citizens of Lima and vicinity continue to come forward with signed testimonials telling of the relief they have derived thru the use of this new herbal remedy, Plant Juice, that is now being intro-

MR. J. M. THOMPSON

Just recently, Mr. J. M. Thompson, of 716 East Market street, Lima, a well known resident of this city, called on The Plant Juice Man and said:

"I am the third person in my family who has been relieved of health trouble by taking your Plant Juice," said Mr. Thompson. "Your medicine does more than is claimed and I am glad to recommend it to the public."

"The truth is that my folks never expected to see me looking and feeling as well as I do today because I was down in bed when I started taking your Plant Juice. I could not eat without awful bloating spells afterward; was weak and run down—strength all gone—and I could not sleep right. When I was able to get up, my joints would be so sore and stiff that I couldn't even get my clothes on by myself."

"This was eight weeks ago. Today, since I have taken your Plant Juice, I am in fine condition. I can eat without bloating, sleep fine and have gained 13 pounds. I am able now to put my clothes on without assistance because I do not have the least soreness. I can't say enough for your Plant Juice after what it did for me."

The Plant Juice Man is at Hunter's drug store, 49 Public Square, Lima, where he is daily meeting the local public and introducing and explaining the merits of this remedy. Free samples given.

Plant Juice is sold also in Lima at Hunter's drug store at Main and Wayne street and at the Argonne drug store, opposite Post Office.—Adv.

Hair Often Ruined By Careless Washing

Soap should be used very carefully, if you want to keep your hair looking its best. Many soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much free alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and ruins it.

The best thing for steady use is Mulsified coconut oil shampoo (which is pure and greaseless), and is better than anything else you can use.

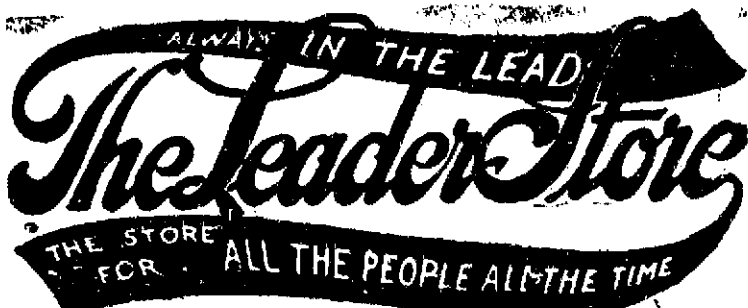

Two or three teaspoonfuls of Mulsified in a cup or glass with a little warm water is sufficient to cleanse the hair and scalp thoroughly. Simply moisten the hair with water and rub the Mulsified in. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, which rinses out easily, removing every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excess oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves the scalp soft, and the hair fine and silky, bright, lustrous, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get Mulsified coconut oil shampoo at any pharmacy, it is very cheap, and a few ounces will supply every member of the family for months. Be sure your druggist gives you Mulsified.—Adv.

BILL DESIGNED TO AID CITIES

Would Permit Assessments for Cost of Operating Disposals.

A bill providing for the cost of operating a sewage disposal plant to be assessed against the property owners of the city will be presented to the legislature by the state department of health, C. A. Bingham, city manager, announced Friday.

This is designed to aid many Ohio cities which are planning to install sewage disposal plants but which at the present time have no income from which to obtain the necessary operating funds, he said.

If this measure is adopted it will materially aid Lima as the present condition of the city's finances would make it impossible for the sewage disposal plant to be operated even though it should be constructed.

Under the plan proposed the cost of sewage disposal would be assessed in the same manner as street lighting cleaning and similar public works, it is said. Each property owner benefitted would pay a share of the cost.

A copy of the proposed bill has been sent to each municipality in the state, with recommendation that city officials get behind the measure and press its passage by the legislature. State officials assert it is the only means of relief open to the cities.

While the city commission has not officially considered the bill, it is believed it will officially back the

IRWIN CASE IS UP BEFORE JURY

Allen-co Probers Hear Sordid
Details of Old Case.

SIDNEY OFFICIAL WITNESS

Indictment, If Returned, Will Be
Matter of Form.

Investigation of charges against Rev. Larkin W. Irwin, convicted in Shelby-co on a statutory charge, as father of the child of Elizabeth Ladd, 11, will occupy attention of the Allen-co grand jury Friday.

Prosecuting Attorney Robert Marshall of Sidney, whose efforts in the trial of Irwin contributed materially to his conviction, will be one of the principal witnesses to testify.

Evidence brought out in the trial at Sidney show that Irwin first betrayed the child while living near Harrod. It is upon this evidence that his indictment is sought.

Indictment of the pastor, if made, will be but a matter of form. He is serving 20 years in prison for the offense and three is little likelihood that further charges will be pressed unless Irwin is pardoned.

PROBE MURDER CASE
The grand jury will also hear additional testimony in the Blackband murder of Bayen Stoiloff, aged Bulgarian.

The jury may complete its labors late Friday. It is not unlikely, however, that before adjourning a tour of inspection of Allen-co institutions and the county jail will be made.

Investigation of the District Tuberculosis hospital charges will not be considered, Prosecuting Attorney Lippincott declared. There is no tangible evidence on which to base action, he said, and if anything of the sort is done, it will not be until after the joint board has concluded its probe.

FAST LENGTHS OF HOSE USED FIGHTING FIRES IN 1922, REPORT SHOWS

While combating Lima fires during 1922 a total of 43,800 feet of water hose and 2,450 feet of chemical hose was laid and 1,549 gallons of chemicals used, Chief John C. Mack points out in his annual report.

Alarms answered by the fire department during the year were distributed as follows: Bell alarms, 16; still alarms, 82; telephone alarms, 227 and false alarms, 23. A number of fires were extinguished without any reports being made to the department until later in the day.

Total loss from fires was $75,679.00. Of this amount $33,899.50 was on insured buildings, $36,580 on insured merchandise and $5,200 on property without insurance. This is a per capita loss of $1.75 per person, on the basis of 43,000 population.

During the year firemen made 2,350 mercantile inspections, 1,544 residential inspections and eight manufacturing plant inspections. There were also 27 departmental fire drills, with 500 men participating, and six school drills.

Lima was particularly fortunate during 1922, Mack asserts and the per capita fire loss here will rank among the lowest in the United States, it is believed.

LETTERS FROM CITIZENS COMMEND OFFICIALS FOR CHANGES IN LIGHT PLAN

Three letters have been received at city hall from residents in the western section of the city commending the officials for their action in replacing 250 watt bulbs in the boulevard system with lamps of 100 watt size.

Substitution was made in the system between McDonald and Baxters, as an experiment to see whether the bulbs of smaller size would provide sufficient light to illuminate the streets. If successful, the entire residence portion of the equipment will be changed.

In letters received, the officials are told that the new lights are very satisfactory and that the results obtained from the 100 watt lamps are almost as good as that from the 250 watt bulbs. The change is recommended for all poles now using the higher powered lights.

While no official statement has been made by the city, it is understood that the substitution will be carried out providing no complaints are received in the near time. There will be a clear saving of 200 watt hours every hour for each pair of lights and it will not be necessary to turn any of them off, officials say.

SECOND TIMER JAILED IN COAL THEFT CASE

"Second timers" brought into police court on charges of stealing coal from railroad cars will be dealt with severely.

The usual fine which has been imposed by Judge Emmet Jackson in criminal court is $5. Second offense carries with it a term in jail.

A man registered as Charles Saltgaver, 29, of 501 Flanders-st, made his first appearance in court Friday. L. E. & W. detectives declared he had been caught taking coal and that he had over three tons at his home. Saltgaver was fined $15.

Lloyd Hadding, 38, of 119 Irwin-st, was charged for the second time with stealing coal from the B. & O. Railroad. He was fined $27 and sentenced to 10 days in the county jail.

WHAT'S THIS? WHAT'S THIS?

He is a man about town; well dressed and keenly alive to what is going on and this is what he said: "I like picture shows and I don't care who knows it. I follow them closely and I want to tell you that if you don't wish to miss a good bet go to the Lyric. There's something about that theater that makes you comfortable and happy. What! haven't you been there lately? Well you surely have a surprise in store. All new inside. Wouldn't you know the place. Pictures always good now. Just try it Sunday."

Reinstatement

Of Taffeta for Spring is made all the more charming by its accompaniment of the Victorian mode. Hips are wired out again—fuffles elaborate skirts, sleeves and necks when a gorgeous Bz-z-z is not in evidence—and hem lines because of the bouffant tendencies of skirts become gracefully uneven.

A score of new models in Spring taffetas have just arrived in the Frocks Shop—Third Floor, in black, brown, navy, etc., $22.50 to $65.

The Coarse Parker

Isn't a despicable person, but a pen—an admirable fountain pen. There is not a man to be found who doesn't wish for one after he has seen another fellow use one. They look manly—of dark orange with black tips, they write manly, that's why the "coarse"—and they belong to the reliable Parker family. What more could a man ask of a pen?

TOPICS OF DAY BRIEFLY TOLD

Another War Threatens—World Economic Puzzle—Hughes Offers Plan—Current Events Discussed for Students and Adults

BY CHARLES P. STEWART

The year 1923 enters with one acute, pressing, very dangerous "situation" for the world to face, and another one of the chronic type, with perhaps even greater possibilities of danger but not so desperately urgent, to be dealt with.

The former is the Christian powers' difference of opinion with the Turks over what is known as the "Near Eastern question."

This is the problem that the international conference at Lausanne, Switzerland, has been struggling with. It started as a discussion intended to lead up to a settlement of the issues for which the last war was fought, ending in the Turks' overwhelming victory. It has degenerated, however, into a wrangle between the Turks and English and this wrangle, diplomatic thus far, threatens to wind up in a fight, a fight that might drag in a great many more countries.

The latter "situation" revolves around the financial and economic tangle among the war-torn European nations. To say that this isn't an urgent problem, too, would be entirely wrong, but it isn't quite a matter of days, hours even minutes, like the Near Eastern danger. Troops and warships aren't actually on the move yet, and there's still sufficient ground for hoping they won't be, in western Europe, as in the Near East.

EACH SAYS OTHER SIDE IS OBSTINATE

The deadlock, it is proved to be such, at Lausanne, is over two things:

1. Mosul.
2. The "capitulations."

Mosul is a village, province or state in Asiatic Turkey, on the Persian frontier, about 400 miles east of the island of Cyprus, at the extreme eastern end of the Mediterranean. To this village England received a "mandate" (that is to say, was given the rulership) by the League of Nations. The Turkish Nationalists, who are in control now, say this village passed out of Turkish control because the English, whom the Nationalists have since deposed, was completely under the allies' thumb and agreed to anything they dictated. They repudiate the arrangement and demand the return of Mosul. The English refuse to surrender it.

"Capitulations," which in the present case relate to judicial matters, mean this:

A certain country or countries which have citizens and interests in some other country less advanced, in their opinion, than themselves refuse, so far as their citizens and interests are concerned, to abide by that country's laws or the decisions of its courts. They insist that differences of opinion concerning their citizens and interests in that country shall be settled in accordance with their own laws and by their diplomatic representatives or by courts of their own creation in the country where they are living or are situated. This is known as "extraterritorial jurisdiction." Naturally no country likes it. At worst it may be subject to abuse. At best it's a great humiliation.

It used to prevail in Turkey, as it does still in China, but the Turks abolished it during the war. Now the allies, backed by the United States, demand its re-establishment. The Turks refuse.

MOSUL'S OIL DEPOSITS

The Turks and the Lausanne conference is tied up because England is so stubborn about Mosul. The allies say it is tied up because the Turks are so stubborn about the "capitulations."

Without paying any compliment to the Turks, who are notoriously avaricious, it must be said that there's one weakness in the other countries' position, to which disinterested observers haven't failed to call attention.

Mosul is valuable because of its vast oil deposits. The "capitulations" are important because of the outsiders' property interests in Turkey. Every other issue, like the welfare of Christian subjects of the Turks, the European negotiators at Lausanne are willing to discuss amicably, but when it comes to their own material claims, like oil and the advantages they enjoy under the "capitulations," they're immovable. And the Americans, though only on-lookers at the conference, are giving moral support to this position.

The situation is so serious that the Turks are concentrating troops on the borders of Mosul and the English are rushing war ships to Turkish waters. The Greeks, hoping to profit by an outbreak of fighting, are moving military forces toward Thrace, in Europe, which both the Greeks and Turks claim.

The outlook is not hopeless, but very threatening.

SEEKING ECONOMIC TERMS

Secretary of State Hughes has finally explained what the United States government is trying to do toward improving the European economic situation.

As has been pointed out before, the central question is:

How much is Germany able to pay in the way of war damages?

This has been thrashed over again and again by diplomats representing the interested countries. They can't agree. The allied diplomats insist that Germany is able to pay more than the German diplomats admit she is able to pay.

The American idea is to take the question away from the diplomats—to make it a business question, not a political one. It is Secretary Hughes' view that business men would be guided solely by business considerations—not what Germany OUGHT to pay, but what she CAN pay. Diplomats, he seems to think, can't get the thought of what she OUGHT to pay out of their minds and discussing that is time wasted, because it makes no difference what she ought to do if it's impossible.

Theoretically neither Germany nor the claimants against her would be bound to accept the decision of the business experts, but Secretary Hughes believes the world's public opinion would force them both to do so if the figure named evidently was a just one.

It yet remains to be seen whether this plan will be adopted.

Senator Borah, who wanted President Harding to call another national limitation, has withdrawn his suggestion, because it was explained to him that he was embarrassing this other plan, outlined by Secretary Hughes.

Deadlock Must Be Broken Or Europe Will Collapse

A situation fraught with inconceivable menace to Europe and the rest of the world is rapidly approaching the final crisis, all the dispatches from Europe agree. Certain officials do not hesitate to say that the Entente will end if France takes military measures before the conclusion of the discussions in the Premiers' Conference at Paris.

From the administration at Washington comes the statement quoted in the New York Herald that the reparations question is at the root of financial trouble in Europe. In addition, this government has intimated that until the reparations are settled on a reasonable basis, it is idle to expect that any aid the United States desires to extend can avail. And American newspapers hold that the deadlock on reparations is a big obstacle to the resumption of prosperity here, and hence affects every one of us.

What, then, is a "reasonable basis" for reparations and why all the difference of opinion even among former allies? That some impatient Americans appear tired of hearing about the matter, has been evident for three years, but that we need to gain some comprehensive view of the facts is more and more obvious. Remarks like "Why don't they all get back on the job?" or "If they'd use a pick and shovel more and a typewriter and a megaphone less, we'd feel more like canceling debts," may express the view of much of our press comment, but do not help the problem.

The leading article in THE LITERARY DIGEST this week presents France's claims. It shows the actual damage which France suffered by the war; what France has done since the armistice to help herself; how much Germany has paid in reparations. The information in this article was obtained by the editor of THE LITERARY DIGEST in Paris from the French Government and French press-reports, supplemented by information supplied by the American Committee for Devastated France, and from the French Consulate in New York. It is of the most definite and authoritative character obtainable and must be considered if one would understand the reparations question which is the core of all the conferences, negotiations, and disputes now agitating Europe and America. The article is profusely illustrated with half-tone photographs, charts, and maps. Other news-features in the January 6th DIGEST are:—

EX-MILLIONAIRE RUNS TOY SHOP

Once Friend Of Former Kaiser
Now Resident Of Seattle

SEATTLE — Special — Alvo von Alvensleben, scion of one of the proudest families of Prussia, who had millions a few years ago and who was reported to be the personal friend and agent of the Kaiser, today is running a little toy store here.

After remaining in obscurity since his release from Fort Douglas, Utah, where he was interned, Von Alvensleben suddenly made his reappearance in Seattle and, advertised by the newspaper stories about his spectacular past, is doing a rushing business.

Von Alvensleben's career rivals anything in fiction. Born in a family identified with the German nobility since 756, he was brought up in the military caste and was an officer in the German army.

DEFIES TRADITION

He defied tradition, resigned his commission and came to this country in 1904. After working as a common laborer around Vancouver, B. C., two years, he made a "stake" and plunged into land speculations. He made millions.

For years he was the social leader of Vancouver. He had a mansion that rivaled old world castles. He was attended by huge retinues of servants. He operated a whole fleet of expensive automobiles. He supported a stable of polo ponies.

Then came the war. Von Alvensleben came to the United States, but ugly rumors followed him and wrecked his business. The story was generally printed that he was slated to be governor-general of Canada—if the Kaiser won. And he was certainly intimate with the German embassy.

INTERNEED THREE YEARS

Von Alvensleben was interned and kept in captivity three years. He lost what remained of his fortune—either thru confiscation or because of unpaid taxes.

Finally released, he had just $51

—but he went into business at once as an exporter and importer and was successful in a modest way.

He was still a plunger. He put his entire capital into a cargo of German Christmas goods. He would have realized handsomely—if the shipment hadn't been delayed—arriving too late for Christmas.

That resulted in his decision to enter the retail trade—and he's making a success at it. The graces which he once displayed at the German court are now showered upon the humble housewives of Seattle—and they like it.

IRELAND TO SEND MORE COPS

Large Contingent Due Soon, Says Father Grogan.

FARMERS HOLD LEAD NOW

Policeman Class of Immigrants to Be Recruited.

NEW YORK.—(Associated Press) Ireland is going to send another large contingent of "cops" to the United States.

This is the opinion of Father Anthony Grogan, official chaplain at the immigration station on Ellis Island. And Father Grogan ought to know.

Twenty-two years ago the priest—now a frail, but smiling man—cropped awkwardly for the first time aboard a liner from a bobbing tug off the quarantine station. Since then he has made the trip many times, until he has become an authority on immigration—particularly Irish immigration. Recently officials at the island presented him with a purse to show they thought of him.

According to Father Grogan, Ireland contributes, in a general way, two classes of immigrants. One farms, the other chases criminals with a zeal that justifies the conventional quip of the joke-books.

When he first began work, the priest said the farmers outnumbered the policemen. Then the police had the majority and now the farmers hold the lead, because in the opinion of Father Grogan, the chief result of the war on Ireland was to drive her sons back to the farms.

"But in the last few months," continued Father Grogan, "there has been a tendency to the cities again. We are finding more and more Irishmen who want to get city work—and that really means that they want to do police work."

"The Irish are a peculiar lot, but they are an enthusiastic lot. And if I do say it—being Irish—they make good immigrants. They make good citizens, too."

"I've seen them come in here, tired of the struggle at home, tired of the constant bickering and fighting of the Free State and I've seen most of them forget all about Irish politics when they arrive. They do not forget Ireland—but they do lose their interest in politics, because once here they know it is not so personal with them."

Father Grogan meets most of the boats which bring Irish immigrants to see that everybody is happy. But nationals of other countries receive just as hearty a handshake from the chaplain.

"Anyone who comes into this country under the supervision of Father Grogan, comes into it with a start that is sure to make him a good citizen," says Commissioner R. H. Tod, in charge of the station.

J. W. HILL TO ADDRESS KIWANIS AT DELPHOS

Rev. Dr. John Wesley Hill, Chancellor of the Lincoln Memorial University, will in all probability be secured by the Delphos Kiwanis club for an address January 15, according to officials of the club Thursday night.

Secretary R. G. Maurer has communicated with the noted lecturer and is expecting acceptance of the local invitation.

TAKE TIP FROM BRITISH LABOR PARTY M'DONALD URGES AMERICANS

(BY MILTON BRONNER)

LONDON.—(Special)—American workers may as well take a lesson in political organization from their British brothers, suggests J. Ramsay McDonald, first Laborite to head the government opposition in the House of Commons.

He is a man who has made history and is destined to make a great deal more. By reason of his new position, he is generally regarded as the most likely candidate for the premiership if the Labor Party wins parliament within the next six or eight years.

"I do not wish," McDonald said in his first after-election interview, "to advise the workers of the United States without their invitations to do so, but I cannot help expressing the view that their political organizations are altogether out of date and ineffective."

"They would do well to study the British Labor party and adapt its methods to their conditions."

I asked him what was the Labor program for improvement of living and working conditions of the laboring class. For reply, he referred me to the official manifesto of his party which reads:

"Labor's policy is to provide work or maintenance for the unemployed by reopening trade with foreign countries, by the national organization of production, and by a large program of necessary and useful public works. Labor is resolved to change, as speedily as possible, by constructive measures the social and economic system which confers unfair privileges on the few and under-served hardship on the many."

"Pointing out that many of his Labor colleagues said present economic conditions in Europe were due to the attempt to impose impossible reparation terms on Germany. I asked him how Labor would tackle this problem.

"The reparation problem," said he, "is one of grave concern to Europe. If the Labor party were in power, it would settle this at once by fixing definitely payments Germany would have to make, how she would have to make them, and the term of indebtedness."

As regard his party joining with those of other nations to prevent future wars, McDonald said: "Our party is in close contact with Socialists and Labor parties of other lands to promote common objects, among the foremost of which is peace. We were officially represented, for instance, at the recent conference at the Hague."

During the campaign one of the planks of the Labor platform was a capital levy on all fortunes above £5000, the proceeds to be used to wipe out the national debts. All the opposition parties bitterly attacked this, saying a vote for Labor was a vote for Lenin and Trotsky. Nevertheless, Labor almost doubled its representation in Parliament.

McDonald is tall, swarthy-skinned, with a mop of iron-gray curly hair and dark mustache, beginning to go gray. He has a splendid speaking voice and r-r-r-rolls his r's like a drum beat.

DELPHOS COUNCIL PLANS PAVING OF THREE STREETS

Start on the work of improvement of S. Main, S. Pierce and Cleveland streets, will be made at the beginning of spring if plans of the Delphos city council carry. The body will consider the first steps Tuesday night in the project which has been held up since 1918.

Repeal of three ordinances affecting the improvement and passage of three streets will be considered. If passed, the ordinances will become effective within 30 days, after which advertising of bids may be started within two weeks. Letting of the contract and other steps can be taken before spring arrives, councilmen believe.

Twenty-three thousand square yards of paving is included in the project. A contract with the Johnson company of Napoleon for paving with wood block was abrogated by an injunction secured by property owners in Allen-on-common pleas court.

THE HIGH STREET MARKET HOUSE

"THE HOUSE OF GOOD FOOD VALUES"

LOCATED AT 132 WEST HIGH STREET, LIMA, OHIO

To The People of Lima and Vicinity:—

Having lived in Lima for a number of years previous and realizing the need of a market house, we finally decided that with the cooperation of the undersigned merchants, we could successfully conduct a market house to the satisfaction and convenience of all.

Other markets similar to the High Street Market House have been operated successfully for many years in other large cities, therefore we believe that there is a need for just such a market in Lima.

In getting together under one roof, we are able to combine our buying power, and buy in chandise at a much lower cost, therefore we are able to sell our goods to you at very low prices.

In equipping this market house we had in mind these things, to make this market a convenience to the shopper, and to reduce high overhead expenses. Young mothers need not hesitate about visiting our market when downtown with the baby, because we have eliminated all steps, and provided wide aisles, so wheel your baby carriage right in and do your marketing. For the convenience of the women shoppers we have provided a ladies' rest room on the second floor.

This market is composed of individual specialists in their lines, and in addition to the square dealing and excellent service they will render you, you will be fully protected by the management.

This is your market house and we solicit your patronage.

Sincerely yours,

THE HIGH STREET MARKET CO.

WOMAN ASKS HER JOB BE KILLED

Justice Believes She Could Accomplish More Good.

YONKERS, N. Y. — (Special)—Justice of the Peace Carrie R. Thomas will go before the state legislature shortly to ask that her job be abolished.

The woman, who was the first in the state to be elected to such an office and whose townspeople gave her the largest vote of any candidate, is willing to forego political distinction if, by so doing, she can better the cause of the common people.

Justice Thomas would have courts of conciliation supersede the office to which she was elected.

"The office of a justice used to be known as the poor man's court," she says, "but I soon discovered that this was not so. Hundreds of persons with small just claims were obliged to pass them up because they could not pay the fees.

"Under my plan courts would be established where litigants would be given legal advice without charge. Then, if they still could not settle their differences, they could carry them into the higher courts.

"These courts of conciliation would be open courts for court paraphernalia is very oppressive to certain types of mind. On the bench would be one, two or three judges who would serve without pay. These judges would be older lawyers or retired merchants and they would render decisions immediately.

"Nearly all small claims are just ones but the long waits imposed by legal processes frequently work severe hardship on the poor."

Altho she has three years of her term yet to serve Justice Thomas is willing to have the office done away with at once so that the new court may be established.

She describes her attitude as characteristic of the woman in politics.

"Woman do not go into politics for the glory they will get," she says, "but for the good they can accomplish."

OPEN LETTERS

To My Neighbors
KIND FRIENDS: I don't know how much, if any, value the eminent Frenchman's autosuggestion theory has in the healing of sick, but I do know of an opportunity to apply a little Couesism to a thriving city in a very satisfactory manner.

How about this for our 1923 creed?
EVERY DAY, IN EVERY WAY, LIMA IS GETTING BETTER AND BETTER AND WE'LL GET BEHIND AND PUSH.

LIMA BEANE

To My City Officials
FRIENDS: You propose to regulate the sale of revolvers and pistols—the deadly one hand guns responsible for so much killing and maiming—I am told. Fine! I hope you will not delay this action long and if you do enact such regulations, they will be so iron clad that thugs and ordinary thieves will not be able to buy weapons in my city.

I have long advocated such restrictions and am certain my people will welcome them.

LIMA BEANE

To Vic Donahey
DEAR VIC: Beginning Monday, I'll have to address you as Governor. I trust your administration will be all that is expected and confidently hoped for by the people of Ohio as well as by yourself.

You have my best wishes and will also have my aid and support in all right moves.

LIMA BEANE

To Congressman Cable
DEAR JOHN: The first step has been taken to provide your city and mine with a new postoffice building. Recommendation that more than $400,000 be spent here for that purpose has gone to congress, I am informed.

I appreciate this move, John, but I also realize the possible delay between such a recommendation and the actual breaking of ground for the building. Get on the job, John, and don't let 'em forget that we have the most disreputable, inefficient and dilapidated federal building in this part of the state. Get us a new postoffice building that will be a credit to our city and we'll be for you all the stronger for governor two years hence.

LIMA BEANE

To President Harding
DEAR WARREN: In vetoing the Bursum bill you have killed, for a time at least, another measure intended to compensate those who served their nation in time of need and their dependents. This together with your veto of the bonus measure makes a clean sweep.

Altho you will have supporters in your action on these two bills, I believe you will find later there are enough opposed to your vetoes to be a formidable factor in helping speed your return to the good old home town of Marion.

LIMA BEANE

To J. G. Neubauer
DEAR JOHN: Allow me to add a few words of appreciation for your fine services in my community to those already expressed since your resignation as president of the Solar Refinery was announced.

It must be like leaving one's dearest possession behind you to sever your active connections with this great Lima Institution. You came here years ago, drew most of the plans for the huge industry and served in many capacities until you reached the top. However, there must be a wealth of pleasure in looking back to the time when the Solar existed only

YOU MAY LEAD THE HORSE TO WATER, BUT—

In your dreams, then in your blueprints and finally became a reality to afford you an opportunity to go up step by step until you had reached the pinnacle in your chosen work.

Success such as yours does not come as a stroke of luck. It is the result of victory in a battle any man may be proud to win. May you remain among us long and in your less active commercial life continue the fine civic interest you always have shown.

LIMA BEANE

To Lima Realtors
DEAR FRIENDS: Your spirit of optimism concerning the future of my city and yours should be adopted by a lot of others. Your faith is not misplaced. Lima is a good town and is improving continuously.

All of us might adopt the Coue formula of "Every day in every way my town is growing better and better."

LIMA BEANE

To the Weatherman
OLD TOP: You have been exhibiting a very erratic disposition recently. Hundreds of colds, cases of grip and pneumonia may be laid at your door. Get settled, please!

LIMA BEANE

To Governor Davis
MY DEAR HARRY: Congratulations, old top, on your clever move in bringing about the elimination of the state tax rate. That you pilfered Vic Donahey's thunder is well understood.

Naturally, the question arises, had Carmi Thompson been elected, would you have made such a recommendation to the legislature?

LIMA BEANE

To D. J. Cable
DEAR DAVE: Announcement coming from your office as head of my street railway lines, that new cars are to be placed in service here during the present month is pleasing information.

The old cars are a dilapidated lot and have served their usefulness. Please hurry the new ones along.

By Berton Braley

WHY SHOULDN'T THEY
I don't know a thing about higher finance,

But this much I'm ready to say:
Since Germany's troops made a waste of France,
It's Germany's cash that should pay.

Yet out of EIGHT billions expended so far,
Repairing the harm that was done,
The Germans have paid for no havoc they made
Just ONE!

"Can Germany pay?" Let economists ask—
I'm sure that I cannot decide.
To pay is, of course, a most difficult task,
But—how hard has Germany tried?

She's whined and she's whimpered,
She's wheedled and dodged,
She's raised a sad hullabaloo,
But as to that debt, well, she hasn't as yet,
Come thru.

Her fields were not wasted, her homes are intact,
So, the I don't savvy finance,
I'm free to confess I can't see for a fact:
Why she should pay far less than France!

Economists say that the Germans can't pay,
And prove it with figures, but I would like to see Fritz quit his cry-baby fits
And try!

FROSTBITE

Every reasonably human being should know what to do in certain emergencies, such as drowning accidents, suffocation by gas, electric shock (how to perform Schaefer's easy method of artificial respiration), sunstroke, fainting and frostbite. Too often the victim is injured by dramatic efforts when something might be done for him by any bystander who is prepared. Preparedness is fine to talk about, but it is a sin and a shame that the great majority of supposedly intelligent adults can do nothing but gasp, yell and get in the way when an emergency occurs. It would be better to faint right away and make room for some one who can help—a Boy Scout, for instance. A Boy Scout can teach the average bystander a number of things it is valuable to know.

Frostbite is pathologically identical with a burn. Like a burn, it occurs in three degrees—the first degree is a mere redness and irritation of the skin; the second degree is blistering; the third degree is destruction of skin and underlying tissues, gangrene, sloughing, and all the subsequent effects seen in a deep burn.

Is the nose, the cheek, the ear or other part frostbitten? If the color returns very slowly after the pressure of the finger is removed, yes. If the redness is accompanied by swelling, yes. If the redness is followed by a blanching or whitening of the part, yes. If numbness or lack of sensation ensues upon tingling and burning, yes, it is a case of frostbite.

Chilblains is a mild form of frostbite, characterized chiefly by tingling, aching, smarting, burning. It is a frequently recurring first degree frostbite.

If frostbite is severe, the blanching is followed after an hour or two by blueness or lividity and blistering of the skin. Healing is even more tedious than after a burn of similar degree. If the frostbite is of the third degree the surface becomes "black and blue" or marbled like, there is no sensation or pain, and blisters cover the skin. This means gangrene—local death—and all the concomitants of that condition, sloughing, ulceration, sepsis.

The treatment for frostbite should be stimulation of the individual

TELLTALE SLMPOMS OF WOMAN'S ILLS

Every woman who suffers from backache, headaches, dragging-down pains, nervousness, irregularities, displacements, irritability, or despondency should recognize in such symptoms some derangement of her system which should have attention before more serious ailment develops. These conditions are often evidenced by a sallow complexion, dark circles under the eyes, lassitude and sleeplessness. For nearly fifty years Lydia M. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been pre-eminently successful in overcoming such conditions, and it is now recognized everywhere as the standard remedy for woman's ills.

Dentistry Is All Right
Is it all right for an expectant mother to have teeth filled or extracted when necessary?—Mrs. S. P.
Answer—Yes, by all means have necessary dentistry.

What causes bleeding under the arms? Or at any rate the perspiration stains clothing red?—Mrs. P.
Answer—Usually a harmless bacterial growth upon the skin. Bacillus prodigiosus, produces the red stain. This may be overcome by sponging the armpits daily for a week or two with any suitable antiseptic solution, such as borax acid—as much borax acid powder as boiling water will take up.

WOMAN REFUSES BOND LIBERTY

Mrs. Knox to Fight Murder Charge in Higher Court.

PRISONER IS UNDER GUARD

Texas Woman Accused of Killing Wealthy Husband.

HEMPHILL, Texas. — (Associated Press)—Indignantly refusing to make the $25,000 bond set by Justice W. H. Pratt, Mrs. Lillian Knox, "Lady Bountiful" of East Texas, was ready today to carry her fight against the charge of slaying her wealthy husband to the court of District Judge A. V. Stark, in the neighboring town of San Augustine.

The two day examining trial of Mrs. Knox at Hemphill ended dramatically when Justice Pratt ordered the widow bound over to the grand jury on a charge of murder with bond set at $25,000. The action today at San Augustine will be in the nature of habeas corpus proceedings.

Justice Pratt's decision came after a stormy session in which defense attorneys demanded that letters written by the slain man, said to be in possession of the county attorney, be produced in court. They declared that these letters would establish at once the innocence of their client. The county attorney refused to produce the letters and was sustained in his stand by the justice of the peace.

SERVANT TESTIFIES
A negro servant in the Knox home testified she had heard the aged lumberman declare that he was "going to keep Chester Collins away from my home or kill him."

After the hearing Mrs. Knox was escorted by Sheriff P. W. Nations to her home where she has been kept under guard each night except one, since she was arrested. Her attorneys announced immediately that their client would not attempt to make bail, altho bonds were available at any time. They preferred to push the habeas corpus proceedings in the district court so as to free their client from what they termed the injustice done her in the justice court in holding her to the grand jury.

C. D. Arnold, chauffeur for Mrs.

Knox, said that on Sunday preceding Mr. Knox's death he took Mrs. Knox in an automobile to the Atoyac river and there met Chester Collins, one of her present attorneys. The next day, he said, Collins and Mrs. Knox went to Beaumont, Texas, and later to Houston. The defense put on four witnesses in the afternoon.

J. W. White, 77, an old time friend of Mr. Knox, declared Mr. Knox had told him he was despondent and that he wished "to end it all." Former Sheriff J. W. Alford was recalled and told of taking two letters from the pockets of the dead man, one addressed to his mother in Dallas and one to E. J. Mantooth of Lufkin, Texas.

GOT 'EM ALL GOING
A representative of a well known insurance producing concern dropped into town last week and conversing with a hotel clerk asked him about the new picture show house he was hearing about. The clerk replied that he knew of none. "Well, that's funny," said the picture man, "I've been here pretty much all day and I've heard nothing but Lyric! Lyric!" "Oh," said the clerk, "your lunch is about all right after all for while the Lyric is not a new house it has been rejuvenated to the point where it is just the same as new. And the pictures? Well they are the best ever." "By the way," continued the clerk, "are you married?" "Yes," was the reply. "Well," said the clerk, "better stay over Sunday and go to the Lyric and find out. 'What's Wrong With the Women?'" "If I thought I could find a correct answer to that question," said the picture show man, "I would be willing to stay a whole week."

Susie Smart's Advice

Dear Miss Smart:
I AM a girl 15 years of age and keep company with a boy two years my senior. I love him deeply and I think he cares a great deal for me. I accept some attentions from other boys, which makes him very jealous. I think I have a right to go with other boys, but still I hate to hurt him. What should I do? (2) Kindly give me the meanings of the following names: (a) Clara, (b) Catherine, (c) Virginia, (d) James, (e) Bernard, (f) John, (g) Mary, (h) Alice and (i) Gertrude.

A QUESTION BOX
Y O! have been doing the right thing in accepting the attentions of other boy friends. You are much too young to become engaged and consequently, it is your privilege to accept any invitations which you choose. To keep a man guessing is a girl's or woman's privilege until their love is declared. Of course, as I stated previously, you are really too young to become engaged. Accordingly it is best for you to accept attentions from other young men and try not to become too greatly interested in any particular one at present.
(2) (a) bright, (b) pure, (c) virgin, (d) a supplanter, (e) bold as a bear, (f) gracious gift of God, (g) butter, (h) a princess and (i) a maid.

Your letter is somewhat vague and I do not understand your case exactly. Evidently you intend to hurt that young man who was not exactly what it should have been before your engagement, or that you were guilty of some ungentlemanly or rude acts which your friends do not seem to forget. However, if you are now striving to do what you know is right and giving your love to him by your devotion and faithfulness toward him, it is unkind of her to dwell on the past. Talk sensibly to her and tell her that you really love her for what you see in her at the present time, and that you will be all the more attached to her in proportion with your friendship.

CAPTAIN BLOOD

—BY RAFAEL SABATINI—

BEGIN HERE TODAY

PETER BLOOD and other Englishmen convicted of treason and sold into slavery in Barbados, thru strategy capture a Spanish warship which attacks the island.

COLONEL BISHOP, owner of Blood and other slaves, boards the vessel after the capture to learn who performed the bold deed. To his surprise, he finds that the victors are his slaves. And it is with amazement that he learns that Peter Blood is in command of the conquerors.

GO ON WITH THE STORY

The Colonel looked more closely. "Gad's my life!" he cried on a note of foolish jubilation. "And it was with these fellows that you took the Spaniard and turned the tables on these dogs! It was heroic!"

Colonel Bishop considered them. "A excellent shall write home an account of your exploit, and may be some portion of your sentences shall be remitted."

"The generosity of King James is well known," sneered Nathaniel Hawthorne, who was standing by, and among the ranged rebels-convict some one ventured to laugh.

Colonel Bishop started up. He was pained by the first pang of uneasiness. It occurred to him that all here might not be as friendly as appeared.

And now another intervened—the brawny, one-eyed Wolverstone, less mercifully disposed than his gentlemanly fellow-convict.

"String him up from the yard-arm," he cried, his deep voice harsh and angry, and more than one of the slaves standing to their arms made a dash.

Colonel Bishop trembled. Mr. Blood turned. He was quite calm. "You'll please to understand that aboard a ship there is one captain."

So. He swung again to the startled Colonel. "Though I promise you your life. I must—as you've heard—keep you aboard as a hostage for the good behavior of Governor Sired and what's left of the fort until we put to sea."

"Until you . . . Horror!" pre-echoed Colonel Bishop from echoing the remainder of that incredible speech.

"Just so," said Peter Blood and he turned to the officers who had accompanied the Colonel. "The gentlemen, gentlemen. You'll have heard what I said. Convey it to my compliments to his excellency."

"But sir . . . one of them began.

"There is no more to be said, gentlemen. My name is Blood—Captain Blood. If you please, of this ship the Chino Laxas, taken as a prize of war from Don Diego de Espinosa y Valdez, who is my prisoner aboard."

As they were running close to the headland east of the bay, Peter Blood returned to the Colonel, who, under guard and panic-stricken, had defectively resumed his seat on the coamings of the main hatch.

"Can you swim, Colonel?"

Colonel Bishop looked up. His great face was yellow and seemed in that moment of a premonitory flash-bomb, his heavy eyes were beader than ever.

"As your doctor, now, I prescribe a swim to cool the excessive heat of your humors," Blood delivered the explanation pleasantly.

It was the thought of Arabella Bishop that had urged him to mercy, and had led him to oppose the natural inductiveness of his fellow-slaves until he had been in danger of precipitating a mutiny.

"You shall have a chance to swim for it," Peter Blood continued. "It's not above a quarter of a mile to the headland under, and with ordinary luck we should manage it."

Peter Blood gave an order. A plank was run out over the gunwale, and lashed down.

For a moment rage stamped out his fear. He cursed them aloud venomously and incoherently, then stepped out upon the plank. Three steps he took before he lost his balance and went tumbling into the green depths below.

CHAPTER X
Don Diego de Espinosa y Valdez awoke, and with languid eyes in aching head, he looked around the cabin, which was flooded with sunlight from the square windows astern. Then he uttered a moan and closed his eyes again, impelled to this by the monstrous ache in his head.

He was beginning to torture his mind with conjecture, when the door opened, and to Don Diego's increasing mystification he beheld his best suit of clothes step into the cabin.

The suit paused to close the door, then advanced toward the couch on which Don Diego was extended, and inside the suit came a tall, slender gentleman of about Don Diego's own height and shape.

Don Diego struggled up into a sitting position on the red velvet couch. "Who the devil are you?" he asked. "And what the devil are you doing in my clothes and aboard my ship?"

Mr. Blood's black eyebrows went up, a faint smile curled the lips of the long mouth.

"You are still delirious, I fear. This is not your ship. This is my ship, and these are my clothes."

"Your ship?" quoth the other, laughing, and still more against he added: "Your clothes? But . . ."

"Then . . . Wildly his eyes looked about him, scrutinizing each familiar object. "Am I mad?" he asked at last. "Surely this ship is the Chino Laxas?"

Suddenly now Captain Blood dispersed the mystery by a relation of the facts.

"And my son? What of my son?"

"Your son is safe; he and the boat's crew together with your gunner and his men are snugly in irons under hatches."

With the utmost calm he inquired:

"And now, Senor Captain?"

"Would you be willing, sir, to earn life and liberty—for yourself, your son, and the other Spaniards who are on board?"

"To earn it?" said Don Diego and

HE BEHELD HIS BEST SUIT OF CLOTHES STEP INTO THE CABIN.

the watchful blue eyes did not miss the quiver that ran through him.

"To earn it did you say? Why, if the service you would propose is one that cannot hurt my honor . . ."

"Could I be guilty of that?" protested the Captain. "I realize that even a pirate has his honor. And forthwith he pronounced his offer."

"The only man among us schooled in the art of navigation is favored, delicious, in fact, as a result of certain ill-treatment he received ashore before we carried him away with us."

Of the higher mysteries of seamanship and of the art of finding a way over the trackless wastes of ocean, we know nothing. We desire to make for the Dutch settlement of Curacao as straightly as possible. Will you please pledge me your honor, if I release you upon parole, that you will navigate us thither? If so, Don Diego bowed his head upon his breast.

"I accept," he said.

CHAPTER XI
FATAL PIETY

By virtue of the pledge he had given, Don Diego de Espinosa y Valdez enjoyed the freedom of the ship that had been his, and the navigation which he had undertaken was left entirely in his hands.

"If this winds holds," he told them, "we should reach Curacao inside three days."

For three days the wind held, indeed it freshened a little on the second, and yet when the third night descended upon them they had still made no landfall. Captain Blood uneasily mentioned it to Don Diego.

"It will be for tomorrow morning," he was answered with calm conviction.

Captain Blood passed on, content, and went to visit Jerry Pitt, his patient, to whose condition Don Diego owed his chance of life. To induce him Captain Blood consented that he should take the air on deck, and so, as the last of daylight was fading from the sky, Jeremy Pitt came forth upon the Captain's arm. With the seaman's instinct his eyes wandered to the darkling vault of heaven, spangled already with a myriad golden points of light.

While he scanned it idly, vacantly, and then, his attention became sharply fixed. He looked around and up at Captain Blood, who stood beside him.

"Dye know anything of astronomy, Peter?" quoth he.

"Astronomy, it is? Faith, now, I couldn't tell the Belt of Orion from the Girdle of Venus."

"You told me didn't you?"—that we came west of the archipelago between Tabago and Grenada, steering for Curacao. If that were our present course, we should have the North Star abeam, out yonder."

On the instant Mr. Blood shed his laziness. He stiffened with apprehension, and was about to speak when a shaft of light clove the gloom above their heads, coming from the door of the poop cabin which had just been opened. Don Diego was approaching. Captain Blood's fingers pressed Jerry's shoulder with significance.

"Will ye settle a slight dispute for us, Don Diego?" said he lightly. "We are arguing, Mr. Pitt and I, as to which is the North Star."

"So?" So the Spaniard's tone was easy. "But you tell me Mr. Pitt he is your navigator?"

"For a lack of better," laughed the Captain, good-humoredly contemptuous. "Now I am ready to wager him a hundred pieces of eight that that is the North Star." And he flung out an arm toward a point of light in the heavens straight ahead.

He afterward told Pitt that had Don Diego confirmed him, he would have run him through upon that instant. Far from that, however, the Spaniard truly expressed his scorn.

"You have the assurance that is of ignorance, Don Pedro; and you lose. The North Star is this one," And he indicated it.

21 MILES PIPE IS LAID IN 1922

New Water Line Construction In City Is 18 1-2 Miles

FIGURES IN ANNUAL REPORT

Daily Inspection Of Fire Hydrants Is Made

More than 21 miles of pipe was laid by the extension division of the Lima water department during 1922, the annual report to be issued by Charles Evans, water superintendent, will show.

Of this, 18.5 miles was new main line extension and the remainder lead pipe and other service lines. Of the services installed, 171 were for new customers and 457 were made where new streets have been laid or are planned.

Number of feet of each size main pipe installed is as follows: 20 inch, 910 feet; 16 inch, 1,573 feet; 12 inch, 24,073 feet; 10 inch, 10,288 feet; eight inch, 12,668 feet; six inch, 41,268 feet; four inch, 6,464 feet and two inch, 437 feet.

In laying the pipe it is believed new records were made by the crews working on the jobs. All work was done by the city and by so doing it was possible to make the appropriation cover 18.5 miles rather than the 14 miles first planned, the report shows.

NEW HYDRANTS INSTALLED

Meters were given more attention during the past year than has been the custom in the past, the report states. A total of 273 new meters were installed, 187 being cellar sets and 86 curb installations.

In addition 1,686 meters were changed because of defects or damage and 1,964 meters were inspected by the department after complaint or during the general course of business. Trouble calls received and answered by the department numbered 4,839.

Daily inspection of fire hydrants throughout the city on days when the temperature is below freezing has been inaugurated by the department during the past year, in an effort to keep protection against fire at a maximum efficiency at all times.

This has resulted in 210 fire hydrants being thawed out during 1922 and the water has been pumped out of 250 hydrants. In addition, 63 hydrants have been repaired.

More than a mile of water pipe is set to be laid by the construction crews. These new mains will be installed in the spring as soon as the weather clears, city officials say. This will bring the total number of miles of new mains to at least 20.

With the additional customers brought on the rolls by the extensions it is believed the revenue in 1923 will be above $270,000 and will make possible a lowering of rates in 1924, City Manager Bingham says.

BRITISH DEBT COMMISSION ARRIVES IN WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON—Members of the British debt commission arrived in Washington to take up with the American commission the funding of Great Britain's war-time debt of more than four billion dollars, were putting into final shape today detailed data bearing on their side of the funding problem preparatory to the formal discussions which probably will not get under way until early next week.

Since the arrival last night of the commission there had been no official statements as to what program the commission was prepared to present as a basis for discussion. Members of the American commission also declined to discuss in advance of their presentation the reported British plans, but did state that on their side they would have no proffers to make beyond the limitations established by law.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

A Funny Letter

BY OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

My, but it was dark! Of went Nancy and Nick to get the notes out of the chimneys—notes that the children had written to Santa Claus to tell him just what they wanted for Christmas.

The first house they came to was Jimmy Jordan's, out in the country. The Twins, in their little Green Shoes, landed softly on Jimmy's roof. Then they tiptoed to the chimney and peeped down.

My, but it was dark! Dark and smoky, and had it not been for two magical masks that the Toymaker had given them, I'm afraid they couldn't have breathed at all. "Sh!" said Nancy softly. "We must be very quiet. Tweekanose, the wicked little gnome may be hiding somewhere. If he gets into the chimney ahead of us, he'll get Jimmy's letter and tear it up. You know he's a gnome and the gnomes are jealous of Santa Claus."

Suddenly Nick whispered, like a pig, that blows up and dies down."

HUSTON HOLDS YANKEES

NEW YORK — Colonel T. I. Huston confirmed last night the report that he has not sold his half interest in the New York American League club as he announced a month ago, and he now says that he will continue in association with Colonel Jacob Ruppert, with whom he elevated the Yankees from the cellar to two American League pennants.

The deal to all appearances, only awaits two signatures and it still is claimed there was no difference over the proposed purchase price of $1,250,000, but what Colonel Huston described as "the hitch" developed and negotiations ended. There are reports that Colonel Huston may make the deal a complete reversal and buy out his partner, but they lack confirmation.

While he still declares that any one with the ready money can still buy him out, Colonel Huston now declares that he will remain "definitely in baseball — one, two, three years."

There were numerous reports giving the exact "hitch," none of them confirmed, but which include Colonel Huston's objection to a supposed clause in the sales contract by which he agreed to remain out of baseball in New York City for 10 years and another that there was a difference over liabilities, including the new Yankee stadium under construction.

Billiards Declared To Be Most Exacting Of All Sports

(BY BILLY EVANS)

There is always a discussion regarding the difficulties presented in various sports. I have heard many arguments on this point.

Ball players maintain that baseball is the most difficult; football players put a claim in for their sport; tennis stars say that you find it on the courts; hand-ball players are sure they have the most difficult; one and along come the oarsmen and say that everybody is wrong and that rowing must get the prize. In view of this vast difference of opinion, the thought expressed by Nate L. Hall is interesting. His opinion should count because Hall is one of the most versatile men I ever heard of. He has been a hero of success in rowing, football, basketball, basket ball, swimming, boxing, golf, tennis, billiards, tennis and yachting. Surely there is versatility and variety.

YAS HARVARD GRID STAR

Hall was a good football player. He was used at end and quarter by the Harvard varsity in 1905 and 1906. That was in Dan Hurley's day.

People rave about Hinky. "The shadow end" played end for Yale and played it extremely well while never weighing more than 150, but Hall, playing the same position and also quarter for Harvard, weighed never more than 145 and it is doubtful if the great Hinky ever scaled as low as "hat."

Aside from football, Hall also starred in several other sports at Harvard, baseball, boxing and swimming. After graduating from Harvard, Hall took up rowing and won a berth on one of the leading amateur eight in the east. Since leaving college he has also added golf and billiards to his attainments.

In billiards he won his greatest fame, for in 1917 he captured the national amateur championship at 182 ballline.

RATES BILLIARDS HARVEST

A man with the versatility of Hall should be able to give some information on the subject under discussion and here it is:

"Billiards is the cruelest of all sports on the player because it demands the most perfect co-ordination of the physical and mental faculties."

COACHES LAUD ABILITY OF GONZAGA HALF BACK

One year ago Gonzaga College and Houston Stockton were little known in the football world.

Today they are national figures in the gridiron world.

Gonzaga College by its great game against the strong University of West Virginia team won a place in the sporting spotlight.

Gonzaga lost 21 to 17 but treated West Virginia to a real scare.

Charles Dornas, as coach, is responsible for the arrival of Gonzaga in the football world.

Houston Stockton is today regarded as one of the best halfbacks on the coast.

Dornas, who starred at Notre Dame with Knute Rockne, says of Stockton:

"He would make any football team in the country."

"One of the greatest halfbacks the northwest has ever developed," says Andy Smith, football coach at California.

Some praise!

WILLIE KEELER'S Hurlers Cause Most Worry

What is the most difficult task that confronts the manager of a ball club?

It is reasonable to suppose that all baseball managers, whether the leader of a big league team or an amateur aggregation, meet with the same obstacles.

To get the major league viewpoint on what is the toughest assignment managers are up against in an effort to turn out a winner, I put the question to a half dozen big league managers last summer.

No doubt the question of preserving harmony on a club will strike many as the big issue. True, harmony on a ball club is vital to success, yet harmony isn't the answer.

Discipline also looms up as a very necessary quality. Regardless of the greatness of any baseball aggregation, lack of discipline, which also means lack of condition, is fatal.

This fact has been proved of a recent date in major league circles.

While the various managers with whom I discussed the question of the greatest task of a manager, touched on discipline and harmony as very necessary, none of them rated either as the most vital asset to a great ball club.

Pitching is the greatest worry of every major league ball club if you are willing to take the word of the men who are directing the destinies of the major league clubs.

"You must have the pitching if you are to get anywhere in baseball," remarked one manager. "If the pitching strength is there, you can always patch up some of the other apparent weaknesses. Without pitching, however, you are lost. Nothing is more discouraging than to get six or seven runs, and then have the opposition get more. Wasting runs and hits that should win the ordinary game is one of the most demoralizing features in baseball."

"Pitching is the thing," said another leader, "and it's another thing to make proper use of the pitching that you have on hand. Selection of pitchers is the hardest task after you have acquired the pitchers. One day you select a pitcher who holds the opposition to two runs, but your team gets only one. A fine exhibition of pitching is wasted. The next day your team gets a half dozen runs, but your pitching is unable to hold the opposition in check. At once you wish you had started the pitchers the other way."

My observations agree with the opinion of the managers. Pitching is the big thing, and proper use of the pitching on hand is just as necessary. I can well recall one major season with what I considered the best staff in the American League, only to have it burned out by August. Indiscriminate use of regular pitchers in relief roles caused the trouble.

By such a system, the manager stayed out in front until August. Then his pitchers wilted and he was lucky to remain in the first division.

Yes, sir! Pitching is the big idea.

BULLSEYES of BASEBALL

NO. 4: THE MOST UNIQUE PLAY I EVER SAW

The late Herman Schaefer had a keen sense of humor.

While Schaefer was always regarded as one of the comedians of the ball field, few players possessed keener intellect.

In other words, Schaefer was a brainy ball player. Better than the average mechanically, Schaefer was equally valuable because he played with his head.

On Schaefer goes the credit of bringing about the most unique play I have ever seen in the majors. It caused the rules to be changed.

Schaefer, at the time, was a member of the Washington club. The Chicago club was the opposing team, and the game was staged at Washington.

It was late in the game. Washington needed a run to tie. Milan was on third base and Schaefer on first. The Washington club had used up most of its reserve strength, and while the batsman was a rather weak hitter, it was decided to keep him in the lineup.

On the second ball pitched Schaefer stole second base. He had hoped to draw a throw, that might enable Milan to make a dash for home.

After Schaefer reached second, the pitcher delivered two more balls to the batsman, making the count two balls and two strikes.

On the next pitch, to the consternation of everybody and the great confusion of the Chicago club, Schaefer ran back to first base at full speed. Then things began to happen.

The Chicago catcher threw the ball to second base, and the fielder stopped on the bag, but the umpire made no decision.

The ball was then thrown to the first baseman. Immediately Schaefer started for second. The first baseman touched the bag, but still the umpire gave no ruling.

The ball was then thrown to second to specifically cover his act.

Now the rules say, that when a player so runs, all that is necessary to retire him is to hold the ball on the base he vacated, or touch him with the ball while not on such base.

TOMORROW: The greatest pinch pitching I ever saw.

"THE BANK THAT SERVES"

'FATTY' NEVER BANNED; HENCE NOT REINSTATED

(BY ESTHER WAGNER)
WHAT'S all this fuss about Fatty Arbuckle, anyway? Arbuckle never was banned from the screen by Will Hays. Will Hays has not restored him to the screen.

The day after Arbuckle was acquitted, nine months ago, Hays advised against the immediate release of three pictures that the comedian had completed before his trial. This was generally interpreted as a complete ban against Arbuckle, that Hays was acting as a dictator of the films. Arbuckle could not find employment with established producers. He refused to work for "wildcat" concerns that would have paid him a large salary to make pictures that could have been exploited.

Faurot's Week-End Bill One of Merit

MERITORIOUS bits of vaudeville entertainment are assembled by the Faurot this week-end for your enjoyment, and patrons are assured this trip of a most likable performance.

Opening the program of five acts, "The Girl in the Moon" swings out over her audience, dispensing songs you have heard many times before and rosebuds to more or less fussed gentlemen. The act is splendidly staged and lighted.

Al Tucker combines his extraordinary talent on the violin and droll mannerisms in a cheerful musical offering. Mr. Tucker plays his instrument at every angle and pleased mightily the audience of which I was one.

Billy Batchelor and Hazel Vert have a novel sketch entitled "Let's Go." It has clever singing, fun galore and attractively garbed ladies. Fun on a Pullman continued.

"A Night at Rector's" Current at Orpheum

HERE'S bright entertainment for followers of the New Orpheum theatre, where the Thayer and Sacks Revue Company have entered upon the last lap of their two weeks' engagement in this city.

"A Night at Rector's," which opened to well-pleased houses on Thursday, gives to Mike Sacks, the company's star comedian, and his co-worker, Mr. Lewis, two extremely comical roles, the former portraying Izzy, a spendthrift, while Mr. Lewis is the ex-pressman. Between the two of them, not a dull moment is experienced.

A Thriller for Sweet Alice this Time

OF COURSE you have read and enjoyed to the utmost these "Blackie" stories which run in the popular magazines of the day. Here's one of the best of them, "Missing Millions," which presents David Powell as "Blackie," while Alice Brady as his lovely bride of a wife, Mary.

"Blackie" you know, is a gentleman crook whose adventures are most amazing and unheard of. It's good fun even to read about his exploits, his escapes and so on, but when they are actually pictured on the screen makes them three enjoyable.

Miss Brady as Mary has a splendid role. Here is the suppressed quiet art of portraiture, and she never employed her talents to better advantage than she does in "Missing Millions." As for Mr. Powell, he's the same charming, sincere, young man — and as "Blackie" Daw he is all, that one could wish for.

George Le Guere, prominent in the cast, interprets his role one hundred per cent perfect, while Frank Losee, William Mack and Riley Hatch are acceptable players. The director evidently knew his business—so did the photographer and every one else connected with the film.

Hence, "Missing Millions" registers as a good little program picture. It is preceded by various short subjects and a breezy comedy "One Stormy Knight."

police dog, as a star on the American screen. This canine, who was brought to the country by Miss Murlin for the special purpose of playing in "The Silent Call," is said to display remarkable acting ability and intelligence. He is said to be the first dog to hold a starring part on the American screen and his eminence in this respect is said to have been due entirely to his capability in measuring up to the role.

Three factors stand out prominently to give this picture its unusual appeal. One is the beautiful outdoor scenery, all the scenes having been taken in the High Sierras of Northern California.

Another is the story, unique for its quick action and rapid succession of climaxes. It was filmed from Hal G. Evans' "The Cross Pull," which ran in "The Saturday Evening Post." The story has its locale in the far West and centers around the rivalry of two men for leadership in their settlement and favor at the hands of the girl both covet.

The third feature is the introduction of Strongheart, a Belgian on the notoriety of his trial. When Hays visited Hollywood in December he saw the extremes to which film men had gone in following his advice. Arbuckle could get employment of no kind in the industry. Then Hays said that, as an individual, he did not want to stand in the way of Arbuckle going to work. This statement was interpreted as a "reinstatement" of Arbuckle.

Arbuckle has gone to work for Joseph Schenck, his former employer. He is not starring in pictures. He may later appear in pictures. You know, and I know, and Will Hays knows, that the only thing that will restore Arbuckle to the screen or keep him off it will be public opinion.

tates the meat of their act, and they are ably assisted by Glass and White. Hickman Brothers, one of them blackface, the other non-blackface, put over a number of riotous moments with their burlesque of a dramatic play and the working from behind the scenes. One of the best and most humorous acts of the entire five—different and amusing, told.

"Smiles," the last of the five, had nothing whereby we could identify or classify it, but it has turned out to be a first-class tumbling act, presented by three young men who offer a lot of comedy along with their tests of balancing, etc.

Getting back into the stride again this week-end. And the bill for Sunday, my dears, sounds like a bummer!

At the Faurot again today and Saturday.

performed. Miss Desmond, May Thayer and Gladys Dale, as society women, appear in many of the specialties. A delightful violin solo by Mr. Isadore Kubell, and selections by the comedy quartette, provide novel entertainment.

The present engagement will end on Saturday night, to be followed on Sunday by a return engagement of the Bert Smith Ragtime Wonders, who played at the New Orpheum several weeks ago, and whose return has been requested by hundreds of vaudeville patrons.

 Strongheart, the Wonder Dog, is one of the heroes in this picture. It is a picture of the great outdoors, the open ranges of the Northlands.
 We call attention to the great variety in our programs. This week the scenes are laid among the cherry blossoms of China and next week with the snow and ice of the Northlands.
 Constance Talmadge in "East Is West" is with us two days more. Do not miss this exceptional treat.
